PUPILS WILL FIND
BETTER BUILDINGS

Many Repairs on Schools of the Capital City.

SOME IMPROVEMENTS MADE

Exhibition Hall, of the Central High, changed to afford an Unobstructed Entrance Through East and West Doors—New Laboratory and Desks Are Provided.

When the school children of Wash-ton enter their buildings within the next few weeks to take up the work they left in June last, they will be met by numerous and gratifying changes.

In the Central High School they will behold an exhibition hall, completely switched around so as to afford unobstructed entrance through the east and west doors; a newly painted laboratory, improved corridors, and many new desks.

Western High School will greet them with a fresh coat of paint in many of the rooms.

An entire new addition is being built to the Technical High School, and although it will not be finished in time for the opening, it will probably be sufficiently near completion to obviate, in a short time, the overcrowding, which has for the last three years, made the building uncomfortable.

The Business High.
Business High School, having been recently finished, is without need of immediate repair, but work of improving the corridors and making the place safe is being pushed to completion.

While the appropriation furnished by Congress—$60,000—is by no means sufficient to introduce all of the changes comtemplated by the board of education, it will be sufficient to add much to the general comfort of the pupils.

In the graded schools much work along various lines is being accomplished, principally in installing fire apparatus and improving corridors. In the Johnson and Hubbard schools the paint brush is diligently applied, adding to the beauty of both places.

Of all the schools, Central is the recipient of the greatest attention. For many years the stage in the high school exhibition hall has been a source of considerable complaint, and the board of education was practically useless. Two small doors had been cut in the walls on either side of the platform, and through these inadequate entrances the 1,500 pupils were forced to pass.

When the school closed for the year, the stage was torn down and placed midway between the east and west entrances on the north side of the building. This arrangement, with the large door that has replaced the two small ones, the hall now allows the pupils to come in from both sides without breaking their line of march.

Erecting New Buildings.
The new sixteen-room school building being erected near the home of Commissioner Morrow, is well under construction and when completed will be Washington's ideal office for the pupils of the graded schools.

Technical High School, when the addition is completed, will be able for the first time since it was built to take care of the young blacksmiths and engineers attending there. Since the time the building was opened many of the pupils were required to attend Central High School, and difficulty in arranging the study hours resulted.

WILLS AWAY CHILDREN.
Mrs. Chanciller Gives Them to Her Relatives.

A will left in the hands of relatives of Wakefield, R. I., by the late Mrs.
William Chanciller, wife of former superintendent of public schools, of Washington, William Chanciller, directs that his five children be divided among as many relatives.

Mrs. Chanciller says in the will that, fearing her husband will not be so engrossed in his studies and work to give them proper attention, is her reason for asking that this disposition of the children be made.

Dr. Chanciller was shocked when the news of the will was made known to him at South Norwalk, Conn.

There are four girls and one boy, the eldest, Marie Louise, being eleven years of age, and the youngest, David, two months old. The other children are Susan, Catherine, and Isabel.

It is thought Mrs. Chanciller sent the will to her mother from the Homeopathic Hospital. Whether she wanted it to be probated is not known, but Washington attorneys said yesterday it would not hold in probate court.

COMMUTERS ASK FOR HEARING Suburban Residents Want New Station Site Changed.

A committee representing 500 or more Virginia commuters has asked the District Commissioners to ask a public hearing on the matter of the proposed new site for the railroad station to be erected in the southwest section of the city.

It is probable that such a hearing will be held early in September, when Commissioner Macfarland returns from his vacation.

The idea of the petitioners is to persuade the Commissioners that a site located somewhere between Fourteenth and Seventh streets will be more convenient, both for passenger and trade purposes, than the site at Fourteenth and Water streets, where the railroad has already begun to build.

An appeal was noted by the attorneys for the company, and a short time ago, on motion of Engineer Commissioner Morrow, the case was held up until the plans for the station at Fourteenth street could be submitted, and gone over by the District authorities, with a view to responding to the first site chosen, if the plans proved satisfactory.

Will of John Shea.
The will of John Shea, who died July 12 last, was filed for probate yesterday.
It is dated December 14, 1906, and directs that the proceeds of a $10,000 policy in the Hartford Life and Annuity Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., dated December 5, 1891, be divided as follows: To his daughters, Annie Mulloy, Alice Smith, Margaret Kopp, and Elizabeth Jewell, $200 each; grandson, John E. Shea, $200, and the balance to the testator's daughter, Marie Waters, who is also named executrix. A lot on Fort Myer Heights is devised to the testator's children.

AID SOCIETY GIVES A PICNIC

Two Hundred Persons Attend Outing to Marshall Hall.

Rain Stops the Merriment, but Some Money Is Made for Benefit of Deserving Poor.

More than 200 Washingtonians, despite the bad weather, journeyed to Marshall Hall yesterday as the guests of the Legal Aid Society of Washington. The excusion was given for the purpose of raising funds for giving free law services to the deserving poor.

Upon arrival at the grounds the crowd made for the dancing pavilion, where dancing was enjoyed for a time, after which the picnicers spread their lunches on the benches around the sides of the pavilion and satisfied their appetites with a hearty repast.

About the time the evening boat arrived the heavens seemed to open and the rain came down in abundance, cutting off all chances of a pleasant evening on the grounds. As soon as the steamer dockers made a run for it and lost no time in getting aboard. The trip up the river was enjoyed, music and story telling being the principal amusement.

"While the crowd was not as large as had been expected," said Robert R. Bennett, president of the society, "we cleared a little money, and feel repaid for our labors. We hope to add to this amount later from the proceeds of entertainments we expect to give."

ROCKVILLE LINE ATTACKED.

Anonymous Writer Complains to the Railway Commission.

Criticism of the Rockville line was offered in an anonymous postal card communication received by the District street railway commission yesterday.

The writer declares the line is at its worst on Saturday night, and intimates that if the commission investigated conditions it would have "its eyes opened."

Drunken and boisterous negroes, dirty cars, and irregular schedules make the road an admirable subject for a good cleaning up, according to the writer.

The commission will not act on the letter, as it is not signed.

CAR COMPANY BLAMED.

Death of Endres Held to Be Due to Carelessness.

The coroner's jury, sitting at the mortuary yesterday to inquire into the death of Englebert Endres, forty years old, who was killed by a fall from a Brightwood avenue car, gave a verdict holding the accident to be due to the failure of employees of the street car company to close the gate on the rear platform.

It was testified that the car was crowded, and when it passed over the cable going north, Endres was jostled from the rear platform. Members of the car crew testified that the gate was closed, but their testimony was not credited.

OUTING FOR CUSTOMERS.

Benefit for Capt. Hart.

An excursion to Marshall Hall will be given by the Masters, Mates, and Pilots Association on September 8 for the benefit of Capt. John R. Hart, veteran river man and pilot, and a member of the Pilots' Association. Capt. Hart suffered a paralytic stroke, and is helpless. The river men have selected this means for a testimonial of their friendship. The committee having the platform in charge is composed of P. O. O'Donnell, John Bailey, and J. B. Raleigh.

Marshall Hall Tournament and Ball

Arrangements for the twenty-fourth annual tournament and ball at Marshall Hall to-day have been completed and are on a most generous scale. The titt-ling will commence promptly at noon, and as some of the most skillful riders from Maryland and Virginia will compete, exciting sport may be expected.
The grand coronation ball will be opened on the arrival of the evening boat from this city, and dancing will continue throughout the evening.

SUES FOR FIFTY THOUSAND.

Action Brought Against John and Joseph Costinetti.

The Palza Hotel Company yesterday entered suit against John J. Costinetti and Joseph R. Costinetti, of this city, for $50,- 000 damages.

It is alleged the plaintiff leased on January 29, 1906, from the Costinettis, for saloon purposes, premises 400 North Capitol street, between F and G streets northwest, for a term of eight years and six months, beginning on February 1, 1906. According to the petition, it was agreed between both parties that if the grade of F street or Massachusetts avenue, where those streets pass the premises, were changed, the Costinettis should erect a new building in place of the present premises. The grade, it is claimed, was changed, and a demand was made on the defendants to erect the new building, which they agreed to do. Plans and specifications were agreed upon, but were finally repudiated by the defendants.

The hotel company sets forth that by the change of the grade they were compelled to move all goods and the barroom to the second floor, thus depriving them of the use of the cellar; that water drained into the cellar and the first floor, making the premises insanitary as a place of business, and that the change of grade made the place inaccessible to the street and customer.

PLANNING NEW POST-OFFICE.

Proposed New Site Near Union Station Inspected.

An inspection of the sites offered to the Post-office Department in the vicinity of the Union Station was made yesterday by Postmaster General Meyer.

Congress appropriated $50,000 for the purchase of land on which to erect a city post-office, the present building being too small for the department and city office combined.

MOTHERS ASSIST THE CHURCH

Beneficent Organization Does Good Work in Georgetown.

An interesting and beneficent organization in connection with Episcopal churches in England is the Mothers' Meeting. This branch of the church's work, it is said, has been overlooked by nearly all the Washington churches.

Among the exceptions is St. John's, Georgetown, where a flourishing Mothers' Meeting has been in continuous existence nearly half a century. Its present director, Mrs. Julia E. Pond, has held the position for twenty-one years, her assistants being Mrs. E. G. Peck, Mrs. R. B. Bowen, Mrs. R. G. Peck, and Mrs. R. B. Bowen.

The organization is composed of those married women in the parish who, besides being mothers, are also wage earners, and its object is to bring into busy lives an afternoon each week of brightness, spiritual uplift, and cheerful intercourse. Although the director and her assistants are church women, there is no sectarian restriction placed upon members, who may be of any denomination.

The dues are 1 cent a week, and this fund is kept for charity, the women themselves deciding upon what object it shall be expended.

Among the beneficiaries have been the Children's Hospital, Home for Incurables, Eye, Ear, and Throat Hospital, Aid Assistance for the Blind, and the education and clothing of mountain girls of North Carolina for one year. Every Christmas and Easter, a musical and literary entertainment is provided, followed by bountiful refreshments, and once a month, from October to May, they are treated to a cup of tea, with generous slices of home-made cake.

The liturgical service with which each meeting begins is impressive, followed by a brief talk by the director and an hour of reading by the directors, the books selected ranging from grave to gay.

Recently, Mrs. Pond celebrated the seventy-fifth anniversary of her birth in a unique manner. She planned an entertainment for the mothers. The rector of St. John's being absent, Chaplain Pierce made the address.

PREPARING FOR CONGRESS.

Installation of Exhibits Begins on September 1.

Installation of exhibits for the tuberculosis congress, which convenes in this city on September 21, and will last until October 12, will be begun on Tuesday, September 1, and will be in charge of Dr.
Henry Boyl, U. S. N., chairman of the committee on exhibits.

The combined floor space will be about 100,000 square feet. The first and second venues will be divided so as to afford convenience and utilize every bit of space.

The sections and officers of each follow: Pathology and bacteriology, under the presidency of Dr. William H. Welch, of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md.; and Joseph W. Smith, hospitals, sanitation, and dispensary under the presidency of Dr. Vincent J. Bonfanti, with secretaries Drs. Edwin A. Leach, Boston, W. Jarvis delphia, and orthopedics, under the presidency of Dr.

Charles H. Mayo, Rochester, Minn., with secretaries Drs. William D. Haggard, Nashville, Tenn., and John T. Botsford, Boston. Tuberculosis in children, etiology, prevention and treatment, under the presidency of Dr. Archibald J. Gould, New York, with secretaries, Drs. David Borland, Jr., New York, and F. S. Churchill, Chicago. Hygienic social, industrial and domestic aspects of tuberculosis, under the presidency of Edward T. Devine, New York, with secretaries, Alex. M. Wilson, Chicago, and Miss Lillian B. Case, New York. Tuberculosis in animals and its relation to man, under the presidency of Dr. Leonard Pearson, Philadelphia, with secretary, Dr. John R. Mobley, Washington.

MECCA FOR ELOPERS

Runaway Couples Come Here to Get Married.

FRIGHTENED BY REPORTERS

Fail to Give Consideration to Fact that Their Names Will Appear in the Marriage License Records in All the Newspapers—Too Anxious to Quarrel with the Scribes.

Many and various are the perplexities which confront the applicant for a marriage license at the office of the clerk of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, but in most cases these seeming obstacles are fortunately surmounted, and the candidate for the blissful marital state departs in a happier frame of mind, and doubtless anxious to have the knot tied.

Washington is the Mecca for eloping couples from Virginia and Maryland and neighboring States.

They are under the impression that, once arrived in the Capital City of the nation, and once having procured the necessary license, the world in general, and objecting parents in particular, will never know anything about the step they intend to take.

These persons fail to take into consideration that their names, ages, and places of residence, as well as names of performing ministers, are published every day in the newspapers, thus carrying the news of their marriages home to their parents and friends.

When the happy bridegroom arrives at the desk of the marriage license clerk, he meets the representatives of the daily papers, who are always on the lookout for runaway couples, and are published every day in the newspapers, thus carrying the
parents and friends.

Anxious to Intimidate.

There are bridegrooms who are under the impression that they can intimidate the newspaper men off duty at the court, and they peremptorily tell the scribes:
"You'd better keep this out of the paper, or I'll never buy another copy of it.
I've heard that!"

The reporter seizes a story, and he agrees to "keep it out of the paper," provided the reason for the request be given.
In most cases it is an eloquent. The bridegroom is told there would have to be a thrifter reason to "keep it out of the paper." A short consultation between the young man and his intended usually follows, at which the bridegroom usually driver who steered them to the license court is asked to participate.

The desire to obtain the license and get married in every case outweighs every objection in the discussion, and resolved to their fates, they return to the desk to tell the newspaper men:

SLEEP-WALKER IS INSANE.

Sadie Pettit Becomes Inmate of St.
Elizabeth's Hospital.

Driven insane by the experiences of the night of June 25, when she performed one of the most remarkable somnambu-listic feats ever accomplished, Miss Sadie Pettit is now an inmate of St.
Elizabeth's Asylum for the Insane.

For weeks after the sleep-walking affair Miss Pettit brooded and appeared in a highly nervous condition. Two weeks ago she broke down completely, and was sent to the asylum by her sister, Mrs.
Lineback, with whom she lived in Thirty-fifth street.

The woman was a companion for Miss Mary Thomas, 1224 F street northwest, when she first began walking in her sleep.
On the night of June 25, she climbed from her window, walked along a rain spout to the porch roof, and then with remarkable agility scaled another rain spout to the roof of the house. She climbed along the steep top of the roof to the rear, and perched herself on the topmost angle, creamed and sobbed in a frenzy of fear.
The neighborhood was aroused, and after several hours she was rescued by firemen.

EMPLOYEES GET A HOLIDAY.

Certain Class of Laborers Affected by Mr. West's Orders.

All per diem employees of the District of Columbia who have been upon the pay rolls for five days, or preceding Monday, September 7, Labor Day, will be granted a full day's holiday on that day with pay, according to a motion made yesterday by Commissioner West.

Up to this time it has not been the rule for the District government to grant such holidays with pay, but following a suggestion by the Commissioners to Congress an act was passed on March 26 last providing that all per diem laborers and other day employees under the District shall have the holiday with full pay.
Commissioner West received many congratulatory letters from the local labor unions and others for the enactment affecting so large a number of the laboring class.

Dunkard Woman Improves.

Physicians at the Emergency Hospital said last night that Elizabeth Purner, who dressed as a Dunkard, and supposed to be an inmate of St. Elizabeth's Insane Asylum, who tried to commit suicide by jumping into the river on Monday evening last, was much improved and resting.

When first taken to the institution she raved and declared she would kill herself at the first opportunity.

When in the Vicinity

Of 7th and H Sts. sw. remember you can leave your car and drive to the Washington Hotel, 1215 F street, and get a taxi cab at a word, daily and Sunday.
